

They are creative and have plenty of practical experience, they continuously find possibilities for improvement of the work of the installation professional: REMS development engineers are innovative and therefore important factors in the success of the company.